

One of the reasons for hosting the Sharing Space Community of Practice event is to share the important work that's happening across the land. If you would like us to share about your research project, please answer the questions below as best you can and send this form to: joanna@pacificaidnetwork.org. We will post the information you provide on the Sharing Space page of the AHA Center and Pacific AIDS Network websites. We hope this will be another way that we build our research community and support research in Indigenous communities across Canada. If you do not want us to share about your project, please disregard this form

Project title & short description:

Action, Reciprocity, Transformation (ART) & Justice

ART & Justice is a Peer and Elder-led art and creative writing program that aims to support social inclusion and wellbeing for people in prison and on community supervision during COVID-19.

Project contact information: Kelsey Timler (Kelsey.timler@ubc.ca)

If your project has a website, please share the link with us: Not yet (we are working on it though!!)

Project Knowledge Translation outputs:

- Articles:
 - Varcoe et al. (2020). "Healing on both sides": Strengthening the effectiveness of prison-Indigenous community partnerships through reciprocity and investment. International Indigenous Policy Journal, 11(3). Available here. (If this is behind a pay wall for folks, please feel free to reach out and I can share a PDF).
- Videos:
 - Brown, Timler & Price (2020). ART & Justice: An introductory video. Available here for now, until our website is up and running.
- Other:
 - Media about the project available here and here.

Anything else you would like to add: I'll definitely share our website when it exists! Stay tuned ☺